Logo Signs
Signs for essential motorist services:
Gas, Food & Lodging

Heading in the right direction...

As of May 2004, Sign Up Alberta replaces the former highway sign program with one that is more informative and efficient. The new tourism sign program provides easier to read signs and consistent guidelines, and meets standards common to North America. Sign Up Alberta will allow Albertans, and visitors from around the world, to easily find what they're looking for on the province's highways. The transition will take place over the next two to three years as the current brown signs are gradually replaced with new blue ones.

The former Community Business Sign program will be gradually replaced with Logo Signs over the next two to three years.

Current: Community Business Sign

New: Logo Sign

The Sign Up Alberta program

This program deals with two major components of tourism signs: Logo Signs and Tourist Oriented Directional Signs, or TODS.

Logo Signs direct motorists to essential services such as gas, food and lodging.

TODS provide directions to tourist attractions and facilities. Motorists will identify the new Logo Signs and TODS by their blue background colour.

A new direction for Alberta tourism

Logo Signs are designed to meet North American standards for tourism signs. The new signs are great news for tourism operators in rural communities because the new signs make it easier for motorists to locate essential motorist services near the highway. Logo Signs also reduce visual clutter on the highway, helping motorists find their way to local services safely and easily.

THE LOGO SIGN ROUTE

EXPLORE

Each sign has a symbol of one (or, at most two) of the three categories of essential motorist services at the top. The spaces at the bottom can be filled with the logos or business names of companies that offer those services. This simple layout, in combination with simple and recognizable logos, allows motorists to easily identify these essential motorist services when travelling at highway speeds.

Logo Signs are used to identify essential motorist services along the highway where the travelling public can stop to obtain gas, food and lodging.

*Note: There are several other tourist highway signs that are not part of the new Sign Up Alberta program. The provisions for these remain the same.
